6/6/96 Those FBI unit pages were declassified by the Assassination Records Review Board. They have nothing at all to do with the JFK assassination. Some of the organizations included Post one of the Dealey Plaza tramps was known. Some called another Frank Sturgis. There was no boxes for either "identification" or notes. This examination, my thought is, FBI appears to be focusing to legal records that do relate to the examination itself while its record of which it knows is of avoiding actual communication, records of the conflicts they can create. There may be an exception in case of the autopsy record regarding which I revealed a situation unfavorable to the board if it does not make the effort. Particularly true of autopsy photos, etc.

These found records were given me by Jim Lesar 6/5/96 at Mass Hoffman's request when I am. I read/skimmed them all after he left. They add nothing to what was known of Jim's writing as well as his CIA career & nothing at all about the assassination.

Some of the items are unsufficient, such as his use for a NJ bank account to pay expenses. He used Liebes & Wilkinson, 500 Fifth Ave. (In this case it is possible he had an assassination connection or role.)

Jim's writing was cheap thrill, as some criticism reflect. His selection of records does not reflect more high on those chief novels Richard Helms likes.

If I understood some of those records correctly the CIA was actually paying Jim to write that cheap shit on Kennedy and the heroes of the CIA.

That Bill Buckley seems to have been no more than a wealthy gold digger is interesting but not really important. It was a pre "cover". That is no part of this & not what misled & misled Jim as a cover in what else he did he only got around. There no short CIA career.

Most of the declassified records FRB has brought to light have no assassination connection. They relate to the various Mexico trips. The exception is the rather large amount of Mexico City records. This is likely in part because Oswald was there & the CIA went crazy over that. Agents from Dallas & FBI

But records that do not address alleged assassination evidence seem to be found to have attracted little or no public attention
